

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A miniature microphone includes a microphone button or capsule mounted in a microphone housing, wherein the microphone housing has front sound entry openings in communication with a front volume and rear sound entry openings in communication with a rear volume, and wherein the front volume is in communication with front sound entry openings of the microphone capsule and the rear volume is in communication with rear sound entry openings of the microphone capsule. A connecting volume is provided between the front volume and the rear volume.